

Sensory Sunday at the B&O Railroad Museum

A Social Narrative for Young Children

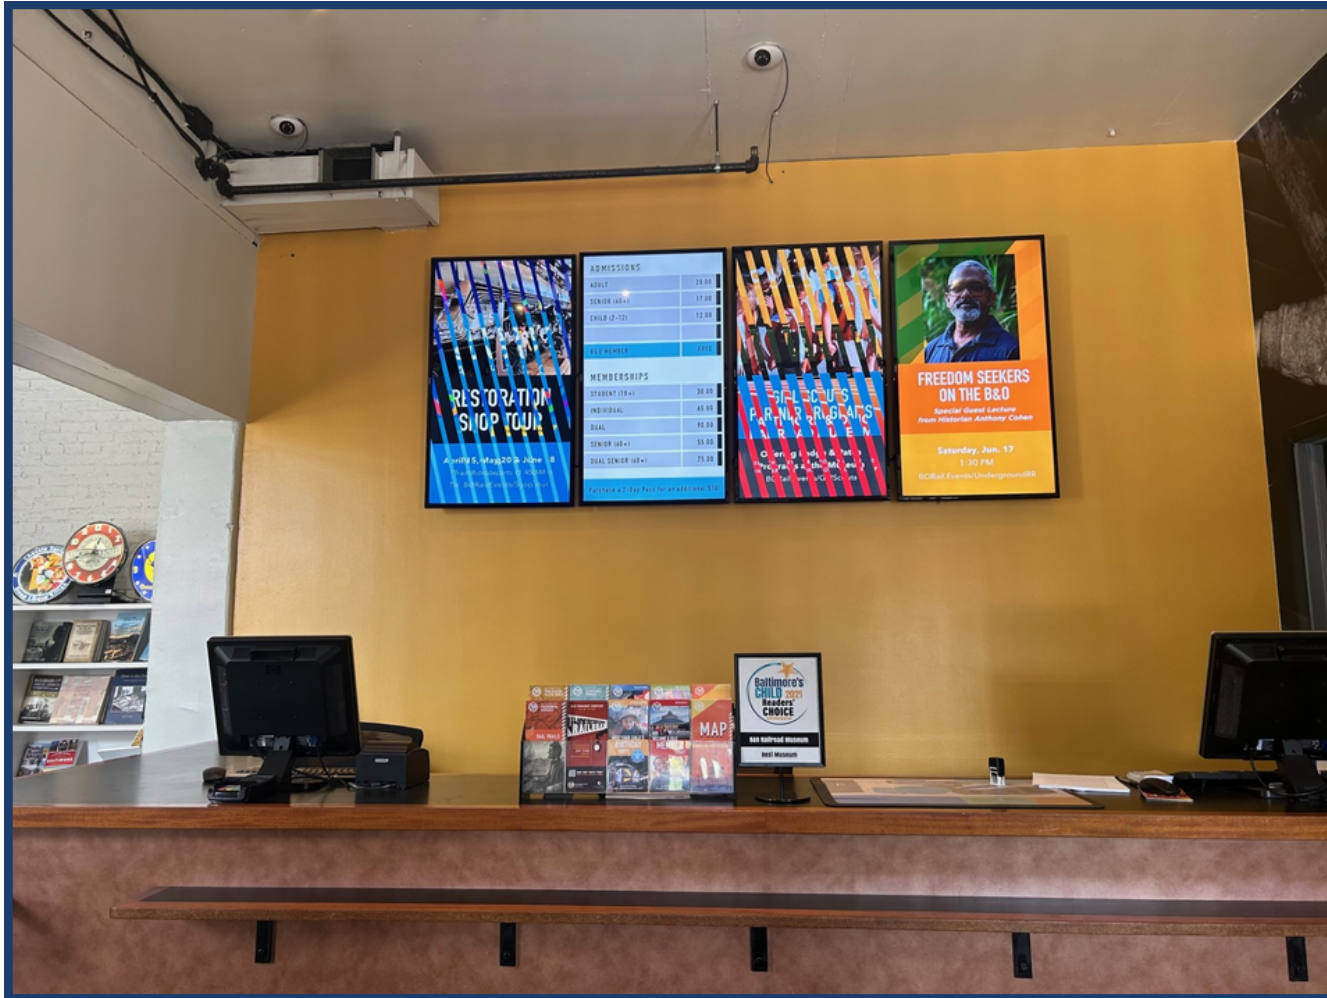

I am going to Sensory Sunday at the B&O Railroad Museum!

When we arrive, we will go through a large gate and park in the parking lot. There are trains in the parking lot I can look at.

Next, we will walk to the entrance of the museum. I can follow the signs to find it. It is important for me to listen to directions and stay with my adult.

My adult will purchase tickets from the museum staff when we arrive. There might be a line, I will wait with my adult.

I can borrow a sensory kit and headphones if I would like to. The admissions staff can give these to me.

After getting our tickets, we can enter the museum. There are different exhibits we can look at.

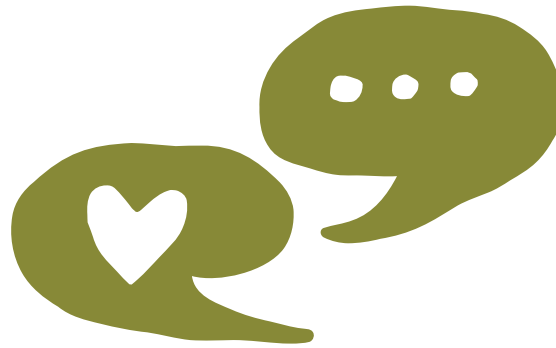

Next, we can go to the Roundhouse!

There are a lot of old trains to look at, a play area, and a library.

The Roundhouse will also have activities for me to do. There will be a craft table and a sensory exploration table.

Some tables in the Roundhouse will have different people my adult and I can talk to. They will tell us about their job and might have some fun sensory toys for me to take home.

There might be a sensory inclusive train ride we can take. I will ask my adult if there is a train ride.

In the afternoon there will be a museum tour. I can decide if I would like to go on the tour or explore on my own.

After I am done exploring, it is time to go home!
